

What better way of leaving an ongoing legacy than helping our natural world to survive into the future. The pressures on our oceans, planet and especially seahorses are all too clear to see. At The Seahorse Trust we are trying our best to make a difference.

BUT we need your help, by remembering us in your will we can use your legacy to secure a better future for seahorses and the natural world.

Each year in excess of 150 million seahorses are cruelly killed for the traditional medicine and curio trades. With your help we can do something about this.

Marine habitat is being lost at an alarming rate here in the UK and abroad. With your help we can do something about this.

Leaving a legacy

Working in partnership with nature

Many people ask their families and friends to make a donation to charity rather than send flowers.

Please suggest they make their donations to The Seahorse Trust in your memory

In 2008 The Seahorse Trust changed the law to ensure British Seahorses were protected under the Wildlife and Countryside Act.

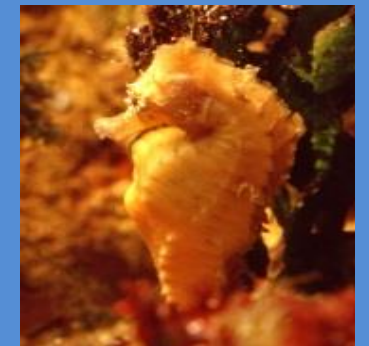

It is now illegal to take them from the wild and you must consider seahorses in any planning application at sea.

During 2019 after 10 years of research, study and lobbying the authorities we finally managed, after the third attempt to get Studland Bay in Dorset made into a Marine Conservation Zone. Working with our partners we now hope to restore this site back to favourable conditions to allow seahorses to return.

The Seahorse Trust works with partners from over 30 countries around the world and with many governments to ensure seahorses are protected and we can know more about them. Only by working in true partnership with so many people and organisations can we make a difference.

The Seahorse Trust was set up as a registered charity in 2000 and is supported by volunteers all over the world. By making it a charity we can ensure that the work will carry on into the future for the good of seahorses and the environment they live in. The natural world is under threat, we need your help.

THANK YOU FOR CONSIDERING US IN YOUR WILL. YOUR LEGACY WILL HELP TO ENSURE A FUTURE FOR SEAHORSES
